COURSE OVERVIEW AND GOALS

This course provides a survey of the political processes and institutions of American government. In years past, I had a line at this point in the syllabus that said: “I know what you might be thinking—that sounds boring.” And then I would try to persuade you that it would be more interesting than you might assume.

But that doesn’t really seem necessary any more. “Boring” isn’t a word that many of us use to describe American politics today. But “confusing” might be. So my goal in this class is to help illuminate our current politics by examining how the American political system has developed and operates today. Lectures, readings, and discussion will address the Constitution, federalism, Congress, the presidency, the judiciary, political parties, the media, and public opinion, among other topics. Throughout the course, we will focus on how these features of American government help explain stories in the news—whether these involve the Trump administration, debates over racial equality, congressional gridlock, the 2018 elections, or other topics.

Students who successfully complete the course will satisfy G-PAC requirements in critical thinking and should achieve these learning outcomes:

- You will develop a basic knowledge of structures and functions of American government.
- You will understand political science theories used to explain American politics.
- You will be able to apply those theories to understand and interpret political outcomes.
- You will become a savvy analyst of politics, and a thoughtful consumer of political news

LEARNING ASSESSMENT

We will evaluate your success in achieving these goals with the following criteria:

- Quizzes. In almost every class, there will be a quiz of 5 questions. The quizzes will cover material from that day’s assigned reading and the previous lecture. There will be 25 quizzes over the course of the semester. We will drop your lowest 5 scores and average the rest. Your quiz average will constitute 75% of your grade.

Why have frequent quizzes instead of a few exams? Good question. There is evidence that frequent quizzes improve students’ learning significantly. For example, in one recent study in a large introductory class in psychology, instituting on-line quizzes appeared to improve students’ performance.¹ Students taking that class also did better in their other courses that semester, and in the classes they took the next semester. This suggests that regular assessment helps students develop study habits that are beneficial in other courses, not just the course that assigns quizzes. Frequent quizzes also help us ascertain how well certain concepts are understood, so that we can adjust the content of lectures accordingly.

Because we're giving you 5 get-out-of-jail-free cards by dropping your lowest quizzes, there will be no makeup quizzes. If you miss a quiz, you will receive a zero. The only exception to this policy is if you must miss a quiz because of a religious holy day. However, per university policy (see below), you must alert us during the first week of class if you plan to be absent for this reason.

- Final Exam. At the end of the semester, you will take an exam that will assess whether you have acquired a basic knowledge of the structures, functions, and development of American politics and government. The final will consist of essay questions and short answers. It will be cumulative—that is, you will be asked to draw on material from the entire semester. We will hand out a study guide before the final. The exam will be worth 25% of your grade.

A makeup will be given only in extreme circumstances, such as illness or family emergency. In order to qualify for a makeup, you must (1) notify us before the exam and (2) provide documentation of the illness or emergency. If you fail to do either of these things, you will not be eligible to take a makeup.

The components of your final grade will be as follows:

- Quizzes: 75%
- Final exam: 25%

At the end of the semester, your grade will be assigned based on the following scale:

A (93-100), A- (90-92), B+ (87-89), B (83-86), B- (80-82), C+ (77-79), C (73-76), C- (70-72), D+ (67-69), D (63-66), D- (60-62), and F (0-59).

READING

There are two required books. In the course schedule below, you are expected to complete the reading before the class for which it is assigned. You must acquire the listed editions of both books. There are also a handful of supplemental materials available online. You are also responsible for keeping up with the news.

Books

Kernell, Samuel, Gary C. Jacobson, Thad Kousser, and Lynn Vavreck. 2017. The Logic of American Politics, 8th Edition. Washington, DC: CQ Press.

Kernell, Samuel, and Steven S. Smith. 2016. Principles and Practice of American Politics: Classic and Contemporary Readings, 6th Edition. Washington, DC: CQ Press.

This year, GW Libraries and the Student Association are piloting a program called Top Textbooks. You can find a free copy of the required textbooks on reserve at Gelman Library. Textbooks are available for 2-hour loan inside the library any time the Check Out Desk is open. Learn more at go.gwu.edu/TopTextbooks. Please email open@gwu.edu with additional questions.

The News

It should come as no surprise in a political science course that you are expected to keep up with the news. Our discussions during lecture frequently will touch on current events, so it is critical that you keep apprised of major political goings-on. Reading a major newspaper is perhaps the best way to do this, although there are of course many other news sources with ample political coverage. In addition, you may be interested in The Monkey Cage, a Washington Post blog about politics and political science of which I'm an editor.

OUT-OF-CLASS LEARNING

According to the University, in a 15 week semester, including exam week, students in a 3-credit course like this one are expected to spend at least 2.5 hours in direct instruction and 5 hours of independent learning. Independent learning could include completing reading assignments, studying for quizzes and preparing for the final exam, and reviewing course material.

UNIVERSITY POLICY ON RELIGIOUS HOLIDAYS

- Students should notify faculty during the first week of the semester of their intention to be absent from class on their day(s) of religious observance.
- Faculty should extend to these students the courtesy of absence without penalty on such occasions, including permission to make up examinations.
- Faculty who intend to observe a religious holiday should arrange at the beginning of the semester to reschedule missed classes or to make other provisions for their course-related activities

SUPPORT FOR STUDENTS OUTSIDE THE CLASSROOM

Disability Support Services (DSS)

Any student who may need an accommodation based on the potential impact of a disability should contact the Disability Support Services office at 202-994-8250 in Rome Hall, Suite 102, to establish eligibility and to coordinate reasonable accommodations. For additional information: <https://disabilitysupport.gwu.edu/>.

Mental Health Services

The University's Mental Health Services offers 24/7 assistance and referral to address students' personal, social, career, and study skills problems. Services for students include: crisis and emergency mental health consultations confidential assessment, counseling services (individual and small group), and referrals. For additional information, go to counselingcenter.gwu.edu/ or call 202-994-5300.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY CODE

Thinking of cheating? Don't do it. Academic dishonesty is defined as cheating of any kind, including misrepresenting one's own work, taking credit for the work of others without crediting them and without appropriate authorization, and the fabrication of information. It is your responsibility to be familiar with the University's Academic Integrity Code, available here: studentconduct.gwu.edu/code-academic-integrity.

ACADEMIC FREEDOM

Each student is encouraged to participate in class discussions. In any classroom situation that involves discussion and critical thinking, particularly about political ideas, there are bound to be differing viewpoints. Students may not only disagree with each other at times, but the students and instructor may also find that they have disparate views on sensitive topics. It is our hope that these differences will enhance class discussion and create an atmosphere where we will all be encouraged to think and learn from each other.

SHOULD THERE BE AN ALIEN INVASION OR SOME SUCH

If we experience an emergency during class time, we will try to stay at this location until we hear that we can move about safely. If we have to leave the classroom, we will meet on E Street in order to account for everyone and to make certain that everyone is safe. Please refer to Campus Advisories for the latest information on the University's operating status: <http://www.campusadvisories.gwu.edu/>.

TECHNOLOGY

You must bring a wi-fi-enabled device to every class session so that you can take the quizzes through Blackboard. But that is the only time you are permitted to use it. As great as technology is (how else would we get the cat videos?), the fact is that laptops, smart phones, and other devices are a distraction to your classmates and to me. Not only that, but research has shown that we learn more when we take notes by hand.

So other than for the quizzes, you may not use electronic devices in class. If you have a unique reason for needing a laptop to take notes, please contact me.
